Sally Hunter has always lived and worked in rural communities and is passionate about helping people to help their own community.

Over the years she realised that people in rural communities struggle to access the networks, skills and resources to make their projects work.

“FundBase” provides the following services:

- Project and strategic planning
- Partnership and collaborative alliance building
- Group facilitation
- Grant writing and fundraising

‘Get A Grant’ lists over 2,300 grants available in Australia and allows users to input their own criteria to get an instant shortlist of suitable grants.

“FundBase” contracts three other rural women to help with these services, who continue to live in their community, accessing stimulating, creative and demanding work; further building their own communities.
